READING PAPER (50 minutes. 30 points)

Part 1 (10 points, 1 point per item). You are going to read a text about young talented people. For questions 1-10, choose from parts A-D. The letters may be chosen more than once. There is an example (0).

A Alex

Nicknamed 'little Pavarotti', 13-year-old Alex is a composer and a conductor who can sing in eight languages and play seven musical instruments. Alex has not only released a solo album, but set up his own music label. The Moscow State Ballet asked him to write Mowgli, a ballet based on The Jungle Book, so loved by children. He's won the prestigious Llangollen International Eisteddfod singing competition and performed for both President Putin and Meryl Streep. 'It was a big honour for me. She started crying and fell to her knees,' he says. 'I'd like to be a chief conductor, but most of all keep learning. If you stop learning, you start to decay,' he added.

B Sam

Sam began snowboarding at summer camp when he was 13. Now 18, he's in the British World Cup team. At the 2006 British Championships, he won the Orange Brightest Talent Award. Sam, who grew up in Kent, wants to be the best in the world. 'My aim is the 2010 Winter Olympics. Only the best three riders go through, so there's a hell of a lot of training to do before then. I broke my back last year when I came up short on a jump. That's one of the worst injuries you can have.' But it hasn't frightened him. Sporting ability runs in the family. 'My sister is a snowboarder on the British junior team. I got into it first, then she started skiing. If I wasn't snowboarding, I'd be a fireman. I would never do an office job - I'm just not that sort of person.'

C Steven

This 21-year-old Australian is a soloist at the Royal Ballet Company. He feels no fear before performances. 'I love stepping on the stage. Everything comes alive.' Steven has been nominated in the Emerging Male Artist category at the Critics Circle National Awards for his 'explosive' dancing. His sister inspired him to start jazz and tap lessons when he was seven. 'My jazz teacher wouldn't let me on stage unless I did ballet once a week – it was a school rule.' At 17, he won the prestigious Prix de Lausanne award and a scholarship to any dance academy – he chose the Royal Ballet School. When not on the stage, he loves to watch drag racing. 'My father was a professional drag racer, so I was born and brought up on the race track.'

D Ahmet

A painter and an actor, Ahmet created some recipes 'to defend yourself from the silly monsters of the night.' Asked to animate them by his publisher, he surprised even himself with the resulting children's book, The Monstrous Memoirs of a Mighty McFearless. Disney like the tale so much that they're turning it into a film. His father first took care of Ahmet's love of beasts. 'He was always recording, so if I wanted to spend time with him he'd stick headphones on me, put on a monster movie and laugh in the background.' As Ahmet had learning difficulties, he dropped out of school at 12. To calm down the authorities, his parents founded a school and told their son, 'You're a genius. Go and make yourself a diploma.'

Luxembourg is the first European city which was named 'Capital of Culture' for the second time. First, it was named 'European City of Culture' in 1995. In 2007 the European Capital of Culture will extend across a whole region. In addition to Luxembourg and the whole of Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, the French and the German-speaking Communities of Belgium, France and Germany will be included. This concept gives the Capital of Culture 2007 a special touch: promoting mobility and exchange of ideas.	_	—

The programme of the European Capital of Culture 2007 includes more than 500 projects from all cultural areas. It is full of surprises, discoveries and special events. The programme is presented as a four-season adventure, and each season will start with an extravagant celebration.
